Born in Maysville, Ky., Sept. 7th, 1873, is a son of A. A. Wadsworth and grandson of Hon. W. H. Wadsworth, deceased. He attended the common schools of his native city until his seventeenth year, when he entered St. Mary's college in Marion county, Kentucky. Leaving that seat of learning Mr. Wadsworth commenced devoting himself to the study of law in the office of Hon. Thomas R. Fisher, with a view toward a continuance of a representative of the legal profession in a family of lawyers, and

The subject of this article was born in Marion, Illinois, and attended his early education in the public schools of that place, and then moved to Mayville. In 1925 he accepted the employ of his father, and at that time conducted a wholesale and retail furniture establishment in this city. Three years later he erected the building now occupied by John L. Winter. In 1937 he sold the stock to John L. Winter, the "price fighter," and retired from business and has lived a quiet life up to this time. At present he is a candidate for the office of Chief of Police on the Republican ticket.

Although the city of Maysville is somewhat limited as to the number and variety of its manufacturing establishments, it is possessed of one that, with its rapid growth in the past, and the output considered, has placed it in the front ranks of its kind in this section of the country. This industry was started 25 years ago, and is still one of the old landmarks of the city, being situated on

MRS. M. ARCHDEMON.
The above-mentioned lady conducts the finest millinery establishment in this part of the State. She started her present business about 24 years ago, on Market Street. Her handsome and well-stocked store is located at

No. 4 West Third Street, where she moved in 1898. The appointments of this establishment are complete in every way, some of the most beautiful creations of the milliner's art being on display. This is due in a great degree to the excellent taste of Mrs. Archdeacon, whose reputation in this regard has become so well-known to the ladies of Maysville and vicinity that the most fastidious dressers among the fair sex are not content unless

A review of the principal business and commercial interests at this city would not be complete without mention of the Maysville Manufacturing Co., established in 1884. This concern manufactures barrels, brackets,

One of the most permanent and ably conducted undertaking and livery establishments in Mason County or in this part of the country, is that owned by Messrs. Coughlin & Son, Nos. 110-112 W. Third Street. Al. Coughlin, though these gentlemen have had no previous experience in the business, their son, having succeeded M. E. Coughlin in February of the present year, they command a large, permanent and profitable business, and show a skillful management. Their building is a handsome two-story brick, 26x30x30 feet, all of which is devoted to the livery business. They have a large lot, and have a stabling capacity of 300 horses, and keep to stock at all times a large number of fine horses, and a few carriages on hand. They have elegant up-to-date carriages, bunks, phonographs and all of kinds. These gentlemen are also engaged in the sale of fine and fancy horses, and with their long experience in the business are enabled to give the customer the best advice in the premises. They are situated in the on to horses left in their care. The undertaking department is under the personal supervision of Mr. W. P. Dickson, who has had eight years' experience in the business. He attended Sullivan's School of Embalming at Louisville in 1896, and in 1896 attended the Remond Training School of New York, for embalmers. He has also given anatomy considerable study. They have the handsomest funeral car and most complete line of caskets, trimmings, etc., to be found in

took charge of the business in June, of the present year. This gentleman has had considerable experience in the hotel business. Previous to the purchase of the St. Charles, he had charge of the Rees House, at Winchester, Ky., and the Reed Hotel, at Lexington, Ky. Mr. Boswell has the direct supervision of the house, and in this fact lies its popularity.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that the LEBBERT speaks of the business of his father, a well-known and improving gentleman, a dealer in painting, window glass, wall paper, and other materials, picture-framing, whose place of business is located at 121 South Street. Mr. Ryder, the head of the firm, was born in Myxville in 1846. He followed house-painting for 27 years, and in 1896 embarked in business for himself, and by his pleasing manner and catering to the citizens of Myxville and vicinity has built up the present thriving business. In June of the present year he took in Mr.

Among the different interests which go to make Mayssille an important business and social center, none deserving of special mention is the business of the Great Hall, which is located at the corner of Market and Front Streets. The business was established in 1859 by James Mayssille, and has since been a profitable business until May of the present year, when he sold the business to his brother, John F. Wallace, the present proprietor. James Mayssille, in the course of this business he served on the police force for three years, and was ever faithful to the duties of that office. He was a member of the Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows since 1884. He conducts a first class restaurant and lunch-room, where the appetites of the hungry are gratified. He is also well known about the place as a neat and attractive, this feature alone making it worth one's while to give him a call. He is a very pleasant and agreeable man, and is constantly increasing.

One of the most substantial business firms in Mayssville is that conducted by C. H. White, wholesale and retail dealer in furniture. This firm through any house in the country. The interior arrangement and appointments of the St. Charles are of the most elegant character, and everything that artistic taste can suggest has been provided for the comfort and pleasure of the guests. The parlors are luxuriously furnished, the dining-rooms spacious and elegantly appointed, while the sleeping rooms are furnished most sumptuously, being large, airy, well lighted and ventilated. The kitchen is large and well equipped, and the St. Charles' cuisine is known beyond question, and the service is all that could be required. Mr. W. D. Boswell, the present proprietor,

This superb hotel, one of the finest and most popular hotels in Mayville, was opened in 1908. It is said to be one of the most complete and well-managed hostleries in the state, having strictly modern and up-to-date in all its appointments. The location of the St. Charles is a most desirable one, being within a few minutes' walk of the railroad depots, and the surroundings are most pleasant and delightful. The lavatories and toilet rooms are perfect in construction, and in an excellence of plumbing and sanitary condition, compare most favorably

HARVEY WELLS.

M. F. COUGHLIN.

WELLS & COUGHLIN.

Among Maysville's representative citizens are Messrs. Wells & Coughlin, who conduct a livery, sale and feed stable on Market Street, below the Central Hotel. Mr. Wells was born in Fleming County in 1857. He received his education in the public schools of his native county, and then he attained the age of manhood in 1875 Texas, where he located on a ranch. He spent eight years in the Lone Star State, returning to Mayville in 1883, when he purchased the livery and where the business is conducted at present. In January of this year the partnership of M. F. Coughlin was formed. Mr. Coughlin was born in Germantown, Ky., in 1866. He was educated in the local schools and at Lebanon, Ohio, and became a resident of Mayville in the spring of 1890 and embarked in the livery business. Later he purchased the undertaking business of Mayall & Shuck, of which Mr. Coughlin is a graduate of the General Training School of New York for Embalmers, and also a graduate of the Champion College of Embalming of Springfield, O. He gives his personal care and attention along with his practical experience in his branch he is able to perform his duties with the highest degree of skill. His firm has the latest and latest style caskets which are recognized as one of the best establishments of the kind in this section of the country. Their large business experience particularly in their own city and they have given entire satisfaction to their constituents and the citizens of the country at large.

JOHN I. WINTERS.

Not to know this firm argues against intelligence. This firm occupies a most commodious store-room, where may be found the largest stock of furniture carried by any other firm in the Ohio Valley. The large business conducted by this representative house was established in 1897 by John I. Winters.

G. W. ROGERS & CO.

The extensive business conducted by this well-known firm was established in 1891, by G. W. Rogers & Co., and is noted for the famous "Rogers' Old Stock," the trademark being registered in July of the present year. In 1891 the ownership of the concern passed into the hands of W. C. Rogers, Inc., however, retaining the old name and has continued to carry on a most successful trade, and established a reputation for its products as unsurpassed for their general experience and quality. Their store is at No. 127 Market Street, where they retail and wholesale choice wines, California wines, apple and peach brandies. They bottle and pack their own "Rogers' Old Stock" brand of bourbon and rye whiskeys and "Rogers' Old Blend" bottled brandies in Cases and Family sizes. Any business dealing with their name is a guarantee of quality, as everything carried by them is strictly first-class and their goods are sold at the lowest possible price. The fact that the company is so successful in its business is a testimony to the quality of its products, which have been sold through this city for the past twenty years. Every department of the personal attention and supervision of competent experts, and every detail of the work has been given constant and careful attention. The materials used in the business are selected with scrupulous care, and the relation of employer and employee are such as to secure the best possible results and the continued prosperity of this great industry.

G. W. ROGERS & CO.—Wholesale Liquors.

Most smokers are aware that there is a good deal of trickery in the cigar trade, not to say danger, to the consumer, from the character of the materials used. In the past many of the manufacturers, particularly in New York, have been engaged in a concerted movement to force a recognition of tenement house citizenship on an industry to the workman who is compelled to perform his labor in the same wretched room, where his half-clothed and ill-fed family are obliged to eat, sleep, cook and perform all the duties of life. It is exceedingly to be noted that even in this day of keen competition there are cigar manufacturers who think more of personal honor than of ill-gotten gains. Mayville presents an instance of this kind, in the firm of E. A. Robinson & Co., who began the manufacture of cigars at their present location in May 1893. They occupy three floors, 20,000 feet, and employ about 100 hands regularly. The tobacco used in the manufacture is brought in the most favorable markets of the world, principally New York, Chicago, Cincinnati and Baltimore. The brand which bears the name of the factory—Limestone—is one of the best 10-cent cigars on the market, and the excellent quality of it is kept up to the standard, as is testified to by the fact that it is probably the oldest brand in existence, having been on the market for 26 years. The other special brand of 10-cent cigars made by this firm is La Constellation, while the Honey Bee, Oporto and C. & O. Bonte are all established and well-known. Since the establishment of the Honey Bee brand a continuous and growing output of 15 years. Three men are on the road looking after the trade, which is largely confined to Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia, and especially along the C. & O. Railroad, and some of the leading jobbers of the business may be said to be the fact that the output last year was about 1,500,000 cigars. Mr. Robinson has a neatly arranged and attractive retail department. The personally conducted business, and through his long and successful experience in the cigar trade, has become known as a "brand" and has given the firm a reputation of high standing.

JOHN I. CHAMBERLAIN.

This well-known lawyer was born at New York City, N. Y., in 1857. He received his education at the University of the City of New York, and then at the University of the State of New York. He was admitted to the bar in 1880, and has since that time been engaged in the practice of his profession. He is a member of the New York State Bar Association, and has been elected to the office of Judge of the Court of Sessions in 1897. He is a man of high standing in the community, and his services are highly valued by his clients.
